Self Publishing Consultating

Why get a consultant?

Self Publishing a book is a great step! And working with the consultant from A Little Love From the Art LLC will offer you the support that many wish they had in the big process of self publishing. Self publishing is no small task. There are many steps to ensure that your baby in the form of a book fully belongs to you, is protected, and is presented in a way that will have you feeling comfortable and confident in sharing your content with others.

Many consultants require a fee of thousands of dollars. The goal here is to make this an enjoyable, informative, and affordable process that is less overwhelming due to the support of a consultant who is the author, illustrator, and publisher of their own book. Let's be honest, it is a priceless opportunity to work with someone who has been through the process. This is an opportunity to receive support from someone who has spent countless hours managing the challenges of putting together a book, and doing research to ensure that a precious book is set up to be published correctly and for success.

The consultant at A Little Love From The Art LLC will work with you in this process to help save you time and frustration as you take these next steps. This consultant has done the research and is willing to share it with you so that you don't have to spend countless hours of frustration doing research, figuring out how to file applications, struggling to with what feels like unearthly formatting problems, and more.

Still not sure? Try out the free 15-minute Consultation where the consultant briefly reviews your survey, discusses publishing, and then discusses our process with you, all via phone. Packages cannot be altered. Prices do not include tax.
